Autobiography

My name is Mohammad Mojammel Mollah. I was born on the 11- th of March 2002 in Bangladesh.

My height is 177 cm and weight is 67 kg

Most of the families in Bangladesh have small family farms and keep animals. Our family has some cows near our house and since my childhood I was taught how to take care and to look after them. I fed and watered the animals, cleaned the rooms, did milking.

I studied at secondary school and at that time I belonged to the college Football club. I was able to refine and put my organizational talents to work in this way. I had an excellent opportunity to develop my interpersonal skills and to be in a good shape.

I am studying at the National Youth and Technical Training Center. While studying I have a chance to improve my dairy administration abilities, milk process management talents, skills in dairy operating procedure.

I have a certificate of English competence. I can speak English well.

I have a driving lisenca for cars and tractors and I can drive them.

Now I believe that improving my skills is necessary for the development of my future profession. The best option, in my opinion, is something related to dairy farm management. I've discovered that the internship program provided by the Danish government is perfect for me.

I have made the decision to apply for a job at the dairy farm because I am confident that it will greatly advance my understanding of the daily operations of a dairy farm and aid me in my future profession. Additionally, I think it is a fantastic way to learn about Danish culture and the agriculture.

I want to continue studying and will return to my native country after completing my foreign internship.

Regards,

Mohammad
